THE CATORGANIC SYSTEM

Real time traceability per batch or individual ingredient or product

Raw ingredient usage tracking

The Catorganic system has been developed for environments in which traceability is essential.

It allows real time traceability of any product or ingredient in its entire life cycle.

Individual ingredient usage is tracked through a series of recipe/process modules.

It has been specifically tailored to reduce the amount of paperwork associated with the stringent demands of the Soil Association and similar certifying bodies.

Therefore releasing valuable human resources.

Additional options include, ERP functionalities, stock control, ordering, distribution, till integration (online and offline), ecommerce integration.
